CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 20.—Prof Allen with his party made a successful landing of the balloon Sierra Nevada last evening near Niles Station, Alameda county.

A fire at Alcatraz caused damage to the extent of about $25,000.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 20.—The Grand Jury describe the crowded and filthy condition of the county jail in this city, and denounce it as the black hole of San Francisco. Their strictures upon the condition of the city prison are just as severe.

It is reported that all the faro banks closed just before the election are again running in full blast and with uninterrupted prosperity.

John Fitzpatrick, in whose residence James Fleming was killed by Corbett, has been held to answer for murder, in the Police Court and the Grand Jury has indicted both him and Corbett for the crime.

A little girl, five years of age, was raped and terribly mutilated by some fiend at Alameda yesterday. It is feared the child's injuries will prove fatal. The man has not been arrested.

Interior California.

MARYSVILLE, April 19.—George Turner, an old citizen and farmer, who has been living alone in a small cabin on his farm, about nine miles east of this place, was yesterday morning found murdered. He was lying outside of the cabin. A shotgun with one empty barrel was lying near. He had been shot in the head and struck by some heavy instrument. No clue to the murderer.

LOS ANGELES, April 20.—Ex-Senator Maclay, of San Jose, party and friends numbering over 75 comprising representatives from all points East and West, made an excursion by special train to the site of the embryo town on the Senator's new purchase San Fernando ranche. Speeches were made by Col P I Walsh, of San Francisco, Dr Howard, Mr Hewitt and Dr Griffin of Los Angeles, Senator Maclay and others. The new town was christened San Fernando, amid popping of champagne and flow of wit. Some choice lots were made to guests and building will commence thereon forthwith. A public auction of lots and outside farms will be held in San Francisco on 20th of July next.

M..., April 20.—A blacksmith named Alex Sutherland, arrested here Friday last for drunkenness, died suddenly in the jail this afternoon from overdrinking.

Crops are looking fine throughout the county.

GRASS VALLEY, April 20.—To day, Benj Overmayer, a teamster, while coming from Blue Tent with a load of lumber, was thrown from his seat and the hind wheel passed over his breast, crushing him very badly. His injuries will probably prove fatal.

The Republicans will hold a meeting to-morrow evening to nominate candidates for city offices.

The school house in the district in the northern part of this county, was destroyed by fire on Thursday.

The crops in this vicinity continue to look well. Business in general has brightened up. The improvements being made in the city are numerous and substantial. Work will soon be commenced on the Stockton and Ione Railroad, which will be pushed to completion with all possible dispatch.

NEVADA.

WELLS, April 20.—A shooting affray took place last night on the Western bound immigrant train under the following circumstances: George Shields, section foreman on the section west of the Wells, had been in town during the day, and just as he attempted to get into one of the immigrant cars to return home he was met by a passenger who ordered him not to enter, and at the same time presented a pistol to his breast. Shields struck the pistol down just as the passenger was pulling the trigger. It was discharged, the ball entering Shields' left thigh, where it now remains. He is attended by a resident physician, Dr Townsend. The would be murderer has been detained at Carlin. Deputy Sheriff McIntyre has gone for him with a warrant from Justice Smith, of the Wells.

JAPAN.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 20.—The steamer China arrived at 2 A M to-day. All well.

Yokohama dates are to March 27th, but the news is not very important. The attention of the Government is occupied with treaty revisions. Two officers of the foreign department have been appointed to draw up the proposals of Japan. Troops which had been dispatched south against rebels are gradually returning. A fire in Yokohama on the 12th March destroyed the whole block known as bank building; loss, $150,000. Japanese capitalists have purchased the U S storeship Idaho. Most of the prominent rebel leaders have escaped from Saga.

THE MEN OF THE REVOLUTION.

On the 28th of June, 1793 three men were seated around a table in a room of the wine shop of the Rue du Paon. Their chairs were wide apart, each was seated at one of the sides of the table, leaving a fourth place empty. It was about 8 o'clock in the evening: there was still some light in the street, but the room was dark, and a lamp hanging from the ceiling threw a dim glimmer on the table. The first of these three men was pale, young, grave with thin lips and a cold look. A nervous twitch in the cheek must have spoiled his attempts to smile. He was powdered, gloved, brushed and buttoned; there was not a crease in his bright blue coat. He wore nankeen trowsers, white stockings, a frilled shirt and shoes with silver buckles. The two other men were—one a kind of giant, the other a kind of dwarf. The tall man, negligently dressed in a vast coat of scarlet cloth, his neck bare in an unbed cravat falling lower than the frill, his waist-coat open, with many buttons missing, wore top boots, and his hair was straight and in disorder, although it revealed traces of dressing and care. There was something of a mane about it. His face was pock-marked; he had an angry wrinkle between the eyebrows and an expression of kindness at the corner of the lips; thick lips, large teeth, a bargeman's fists, a luminous eye. The dwarf was a yellowish man who, seated, seemed deformed; his head was thrown backward, his eyes were blood-shot, his face were covered with livid patches, a handkerchief was tied over his greasy and flat hair. No forehead, an enormous and terrible mouth. He wore ordinary trowsers, slippers, and a waist-coat, which looked as if it was of white satin, and over his waist-coat a jacket, in the folds of which a hard and straight line revealed a poniard. The first of these men was named Robespierre, the second Danton, the third, Marat. They were alone in the room. There was a glass and a bottle of wine before Danton; a cup of coffee before Marat, and a heap of papers before Robespierre. A map of France was stretched out on the table.—From Victor Hugo's '93.

Colfax was not a success in New Haven. The receipts didn't pay the expenses.

GENERAL NOTES.

The Agassiz Memorial fund has reached $31,...

The Dowager Duchess of Richmond is dead. She led an uneventful life but was passionately fond of boiled salmon.

A Wisconsin paper says of Sumner: He was a great statesman and if he borrowed a dollar he didn't forget to pay it.

One hundred and twenty newspapers and periodicals have been suppressed in France since MacMahon became President.

Tennyson left this out: Alexandrowna's uncle sent her a basket of diamonds and it was lost on the way. Alexandrowna!

Gen Banks' son Joseph was assaulted and left senseless on a Boston street by some roughs the other night for trying to help some girls they were insulting.

During a recent freshet in Connecticut an editor telegraphed another at the scene of action: "Send me full particulars of the flood." The answer came: "You will find them in Genesis."

It is reported says the Lawrence (Mass.) Eagle that one of our peace loving husbands a few months ago agreed to give his wife three dollars a week to maintain comparative silence, deducting one cent for each superfluous word she uttered. She now owes him nearly enough to pay the city debt.

On dit, that Miss Minnie, daughter of General Sherman, is shortly to be married to Assistant Engineer Fitch, of the navy; Miss Early, niece of the late Confederate General Early, is to be married to Commander De Haven Manly, of the navy, and Miss Bessie Stewart, daughter of Senator Stewart, of Nevada to Lieut Hooker, of the navy.

At a juvenile party, a young gentleman about seven years old kept himself aloof from the rest of the company. The lady of the house called to him: "Come and play and dance, my dear. Choose one of those pretty girls for your wife." "Not likely!" cried the young cynic. "No wife for me! Do you think I want to be worried out of my life like poor papa?"

Ill health should be avoided of course, by stated action as well as personal care, inasmuch as it diminishes mental and physical force; but as we are all under sentence of capital punishment, is it worth while to make the enormous fuss everybody is now doing about everything which makes, or possibly may make death come a little quicker? Is there no force in Frederick's apothegm, as he caned the flying soldier: "You rascal, do you want to live for ever?"

A BAD STORY.

A little boy having heard a beautiful story about a little boy and a hatchet, and how, because the little boy wouldn't tell a lie he, in time, got to be President of the United States, was very much impressed by it. Now it happened that, on the last day of March, he was just ten years old and his father asked him what he would like to have for a birthday present. Very naturally the boy's answer was, "A little hatchet if you please, papa." The father bought him a little hatchet that very day, and the boy was so delighted that he actually took it to bed with him.

Early the next morning he got up, dressed himself, took his little hatchet and went out into the garden. There as luck would have it the first thing that caught his eye was his father's favorite cherry-tree. "My eyes!" said the little boy to himself, "what a time my father would make if a fellow were to cut that tree!" It was a wicked thought, for it led him into temptation. There was the tree—tall, straight, and fair—just the thing for a sharp little hatchet. And there was the hatchet—strong, sharp and shining—just the thing for a favorite cherry tree. In another instant the swift strokes of an ax were heard in the still morning, and before long a small boy was seen running toward the house. His father met him at the door.

"My boy, what noise was that I heard just now? Surely you have not been at my favorite cherry tree?"

The boy stood proudly before him but with downcast eyes and flushing cheeks. "Father," he said, "I cannot tell a lie. That cherry tree is—"

"Say no more," said the father, extending his arm. "You have done wrong, my son, and that was my favorite tree, but you have spoken the truth. I forgive you. Better to—"

This was too much. The boy rushed into his father's arms.

"Father," he whispered, "April fool! I haven't touched the cherry-tree, but I most chopped the old apple-stump to pieces."

"You young rascal, you!" cried the father, "do you mean to say you haven't chopped my tree? April fool your old father will you? Take off your coat sir!"

With a suppressed sob, that little boy obeyed. Then, shutting his eyes, he felt his father's hand descend upon his shrinking form.

"My son," said the father solemnly as he stroked his little shoulder, "it is the first of April. Go thy way."—Jack in the Pulpit, St. Nicholas for April.

A ROYAL BORE.—I dined and slept on Saturday at Sir George Shee's: a great company, with the Duke of Gloucester at their head. As soon as the cloth was removed Windham fell fast asleep—so sound that an hour afterward I attempted in vain to arouse him by speaking pretty loud near his ear, but nothing moved him. This continued till we retired to coffee about 9 o'clock, when the Duke of Gloucester singled him out and took him into a corner of the drawing room. Everybody immediately withdrew into the next room, with the door open, and I left the poor stricken deer to his fate. I rejoiced that it was not ourselves. He remained under this protracted operation till past 12. We could see him from the other room without being seen by the Duke, and we went by twos to observe the picture of suffering and misery which his whole figure and face exhibited. The Duke of Gloucester is famous for inflicting this sort of slow torture. CHIEF JUSTICE WAITE'S FIRST DECISION.—Chief Justice Waite delivered his first opinion to-day in the case of Lappen, Tax Collector of Chicago, vs. the Merchants National Bank. THE DISTRICT FRAUDS.

THE CHARGE THAT THE UNITED STATES HAS BEEN MADE TO PAY FOR WORK NOT DONE—A SHELLED CANAL AN UNTRUE STATEMENT—TESTIMONY OF ANOTHER WITNESS.

WASHINGTON, March ...—Little by little the truth about the management of affairs in the District of Columbia come out though it has to be sifted with much labor from a great mass of irrelevant testimony. To day the memorialists proved their charge that the United States has been required to pay for work that has never been done by the Board of Public Works or anybody else. Among the charges against the United States is the following, which is from Gen Babcock's report and is a part of the voucher upon which the money was paid:

Reservation 1.—Flagging, 17 2 9 square feet at ... cents ... $105 ...

Gutters ... 049 square yards at ... cents ... $76 ...

Grading 4 ... cubic yards at ... cents $1 ...

Total $14 380 35

W T Bigley was called as a witness and asked if he had examined the reservation and what he found there. He replied that there was not a foot of flagging on either side of the reservation. On the New Jersey avenue side there was an old brick footwalk with a two inch curb that had been there at least ten years and might have been there twenty years. At this point Gov. Shepherd interrupted the witness by saying that he could explain this matter as he was personally cognizant of the facts and to save the time of the committee. He said that Congress made several appropriations for improvements during the last session. One of the amounting to $1 210 000 was to pay the Board for work which it had actually performed before the passage of the bill making the appropriation, Jan 8 1873. On March 3, 1873 Congress made another appropriation of $1 000 000 to reimburse the old corporations for money that had been spent upon the avenues of the city in years past. This was to be given to the Board for new improvements to be made. When they came to draw this money from the Treasury no voucher were required for it and so the Engineer of the Board and one appointed by Gen Babcock measured up and estimated the original cost of the old work. The flagging etc. around Reservation No 17 was of this character and there was no claim that the Board had done the work there.

This explanation would have been very satisfactory had it not been that it lacked two essential qualities—First, it is not true, and second, if it was true, it did not explain the charge against the United States for flagging when the only walk there was brick. It was not true that the $14 000 in question was paid out of the appropriation made March 3, 1873 to reimburse the old corporations for work done on the avenues, because the money was paid Jan 11, 1873, nearly two months before that appropriation was made as the following certificate, appended to the account of which this is one item will show:

OFFICE PUBLIC BUILDINGS AND GROUNDS, WASHINGTON, D C, Jan 10, 1873.

I have had the proper examination made and the measurements verified and hereby approve them and the prices claimed therefor.

O L BABCOCK,
Major of Engineers in charge of Public Buildings and Grounds.

This settled the question in regard to that reservation, and the District Government had nothing to say in reply.

ANOTHER ALLEGATION.

After a recess, Patrick Cullinane, an old contractor, was sworn for the memorialists. This witness in the course of his examination in chief testified that on a given date he went to James A Magruder, the Treasurer of the Board of Public Works, to obtain payment of a certificate for $30 000 due him by the Board, and that Magruder refused to pay him unless he (the witness) would pay him (Magruder) the sum of $5 000; that at a subsequent date also given he called again on Magruder, who paid him the $5 000, but again asked him for $5 000 and as he handed him his check for $20 000 suggested that if the witness felt any delicacy about giving the five thousand dollars to him he might go to Georgetown, the residence of the Treasurer, and leave the amount with Mrs. Magruder. The witness was closely cross questioned about this alleged transaction as also in relation to his Four and a half street contract. During his examination it transpired that Cullinane had not performed the work on Four-and-a-half street in any respect in accordance with the terms of the contract with the Board, neither as to quantity or quality, and that when final settlement was made with him the sum of $15 000 was retained to cover the cost of making his work good; also that on examination of his work by order of the Board evidence was disclosed to justify the suspicion of collusion between Cullinane and a street superintendent whose duty it was to ... to the Board as to whether the contract had been performed according to specification.

OUR GREAT AND RAPIDLY INCREASING WEALTH.

FORTY-SIX MILLIONS ADDED IN A DAY.

At the present moment, if we may believe some of our bankers and all the great financiers in Congress, we are a rich people and day by day, even hour by hour, we are growing rapidly richer. If the propositions already accepted in the House and Senate become laws, and they evidently will, we shall have in circulation eight hundred millions of money. It is a very pretty figure. It has about it that symmetry which legislators seem to admire, for if we divide it among forty millions of people we shall find that it gives everybody twenty dollars. There are actually twenty dollars for every man, woman and child in the country, so that if a man has a wife and three children, taking their share with his own, as man is so apt to do, he may count himself worth a hundred dollars. It is true, he may not have the money in his possession, but that is only a trifle. If he feels troubled on that score he is simply in the condition of the Western and Southern banks. They complain sadly that they cannot get their share, but somebody in Congress—he is probably from the West—from some point within the shadow of the brown forests of the Mississippi—has a fine plan for the distribution of the currency, which will smooth away the inequalities hitherto established by the operation of commerce and industry, and give them their proportion; and the man who wants his share must call upon this gentleman to introduce a bill for a redistribution down to his level. It would be only fair to make some bloated hold other disgorge.

There is but one point that gives us pain in contemplating this subject of our national wealth, and that is when we fully compare our own history in this respect with the history of some other countries. It is true that at the present moment we compare exceedingly well with the world, but one nation has been infinitely ahead of us. That is France. In the period of the French Revolution so brilliant an financial and commercial aspect the wealth of the people of the country was such as must make our prairie statesmen bite their thumbs in despair for their utmost flight of ambition can scarcely ... to the ... of elevating our people to a condition of such enormous prosperity. France at the end of 1795 or the beginning of 1796 had forty-five milliards of money—forty five thousand millions of francs or in figures—in order that Mr Morton may see how many noughts it takes to make so much money—45 000 000 000. This is equal to nine thousand million of dollars. For the convenience of ciphering—since it is scarcely worth while to stand at a trifle in such numbers—we may suppose the population to have been thirty millions though it was much less, and this would give three hundred dollars or fifteen hundred francs to each person. That is great wealth. But this money also was not appreciated by the people. They squandered it terribly. They were seized with a vile and ...

... ing at a ... hateful passion for gold and for a mere bauble, a dull piece of two its four francs they gave in the Government money even three and two hundred francs of ... and five hundred dollars for four dollars and eighty cents. For a plain dinner at a restaurant people paid two hundred or a thousand dollars. If a woman went to market she carried her money in a large basket and likely gave it all for a little chicken that she could wrap in two grape vine leaves. In short such wealth was never seen elsewhere.

Everybody who rejoices at seeing the people rich by act of Congress and in seeing business loosened must read with delight in the Congressional reports how Congress yesterday promptly put down several mischievous propositions evidently made by public enemies and all tending to inculcate in the minds of the people the notion that our national money is not as good as gold, aiming evidently to cast discredit on money actually created by our own Congress. Mr Saulsbury of Maryland wanted to vote to redeem the money with gold at a certain rate in 1876. Mr Thurman wanted to make the customs duties payable in national bills and Mr Frelinghuysen absolutely thought it would be good for the Government to have gold in the Treasury. Congress scorned these propositions but in France they not only scorned such propositions but they cut off the heads of the men who made them, and that was one of the ways in which France became so enormously rich. Our virtue is moderate as yet.—N. Y. Herald April 11.

OREGON.

The Independent Literary Society of Jacksonville will shortly give a benefit in aid of the sufferers by the fire.

The average temperature at Baker City during the week ending April 10th was 41 1 degrees; coldest weather 32 degrees, warmest 64 degrees.

All over the valley the farmers are progressing rapidly with their spring planting. In some cases now nearly or quite finished. East of the mountains spring work has just begun in earnest.

The late rains on the foothills with the snow on the mountains still keep water in the ditches and in the large creeks in Jackson county and mining continues active as yet—much more so than was anticipated a month or so ago.

The Jacksonville Sentinel says: Notwithstanding the risks taken by everybody during the fire, we have only heard of one person sustaining any bodily injury and that is Mr George Brown, who cut his foot with an ax while chopping down awnings. Though severe, it will not confine him to the house.

O P Alexander, who died on the 12th inst at Jacksonville, and Isaac Long, who died in Albany on the 26th of last month, were both initiates of the Odd Fellows Lodge in Jacksonville—being initiated on the same evening less than a year ago and both dying in less than a year from initiation, and nearly at the same time.

As a warning to travelers where to camp the Baker City Herald has this: On Monday evening a party of travelers camped near Mr Jenkins' farm some seven or eight miles north of this city and turned their horses out upon the commons. The next morning they hitched up and came into town. In a few hours after their arrival Mr Jenkins came in and arrested them on the joint charges of burning his wood and encroaching upon his premises by pasturing their horses upon his land.

The following is the programme of races over the La Grande track, Union county, commencing May 5th: First day—free for all two year olds, one mile, single dash $75. Second day—free for all three year olds, two best in three, mile heat $100. Third day—free for all horses, one quarter mile, $100; same day two best in three, one half mile, free for all horses, two best in three, mile heats $100. Fifth day—free for all horses, three best in five, mile heats, first horse $300, second horse $200.

Mr I B Fitting, who was nominated by the Republican Convention of Baker county for representative, declines the honor and publishes a card in which he says: "I deem it to be a duty that I owe to those who nominated me as well as to myself, to decline being as I now do that blind adherence to party has been the cause of all the evils that has befallen our country in the past and is to day the fruitful source of corruption that is everywhere apparent; I have ceased to be a partisan and shall in the future vote for those whom I believe to be the best qualified without regard to their party affiliation or political antecedent."

The Sentinel makes the total loss by the Jacksonville fire on Tuesday of last week foot up $67 900, of which A Fisher and I Solomon, merchant, lost $30 000. On the whole amount of property consumed and damaged by removal there was an insurance recoverable of but $18 000, distributed as follows: I Jacobs $..., A Fisher $10 000, Judge A Nunan $2000, I Solomon $... C Coleman $600, D Linn $1 000, John Bilger $500, Ben Sachs $500, John Orth $500. The insurance was distributed about as follows: Imperial Company $14 000, Phœnix $2 000, and Home Mutual about $2 000. Nearly $100 000 loss by fire in a year is rather heavy on a small place like Jacksonville, but it does not by any means crush hope or paralyze effort. The burnt district will soon be covered with new and more permanent buildings and Jacksonville will remain the chief town of Southern Oregon.

MASS MEETING IN JOSEPHINE COUNTY.

JOSEPHINE COUNTY, April 10.

Therefore, We call upon all taxpayers, regardless of party, to meet in Mass Convention at the Junction House, in Slate Creek on the 9th day of May next at 1 o'clock P M, and nominate a full County Ticket of our best men without regard to their former political opinions.

A CURIOUS SUPERSTITION REVIVED.—A superstition of the middle ages has lately been revived at Namur. Four men in hand rafts were lately seen sitting on a trough drifting down the Sambre. Three of them held boat hooks; the fourth read aloud some formula out of a book, and a lighted candle stuck in a washerwoman's tub floated by the side of the trough. These persons were looking for a drowned man. The reader was evoking the body by means of sacred words, while the candle was expected to stop and go out as soon as it stood over the spot where the corpse lay. The party did not indeed trust wholly to this medieval recipe, but supplemented it by sounding the bed of the river.

A SAD ACCIDENT.—About 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, while Christina Wasson was walking on the Northwestern railroad in company with several others, she saw her child on the track and a train rushing toward it. She rushed forward to save her child and tripping on the rail fell and was instantly killed by the locomotive. The child also fell and lost its right foot by the driving wheel of the engine cutting it off. The child and the dead body of its mother were taken to their home in Chapin street.—Chicago Tribune, April 3.

SPECIMENS OF NATIVE WOODS.—The House Committee on Agriculture have agreed to report a bill for the collection of specimens of all native woods in the United States to be placed in the museum of the Agricultural Department in Washington.

WILLIAMS' SPEECH AT SALEM.

SALEM, April 20 1874.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

In the opening speech of the canvass in this city on the evening of April 18th by Mr Richard Williams we presume we have an outline of the general character of the campaign, and judging by that we may say the contest while it promises to be personal to an unusual extent is not likely to be either instructive or suggestive of ways and means by which the present condition of our State or nation's affairs can be improved, so far as Mr Williams is concerned. In regard to the latter (the speaker's special field of discussion) he confesses to having NO MATURELY CONSIDERED OPINION on the financial situation which he claimed is the most important one of the two subjects now mainly causing men to differ. On the other or secondary subject, to-wit: the right of Congress to regulate inter-State commerce, including the regulation of freight charges by railroad companies—he said in effect that "if he went to Congress and did not change his present views, he should support measures calculated to maintain the commercial weal against railroad companies."

When asked at the close of his speech by Mr Minto what guarantee he could give the people that he would not change his views between the time of his election (if he be elected) and the time he will be called upon to vote, he replied as though his honor as a man was called in question, but he was understood to say he should depend on his "head and heart to guide him in such a case." The question was suggested by the uncertainty of his own language, implying as it did that he might change his opinions, and to say that he will be guided by his head or his heart in case he does so is no pledge to the people that he will represent them should they vote to him to represent their desire that legislation given many ... is for the general good should be had.

The citizens of this county have good reason to doubt specious promises. Our representative ticket two years ago was chosen as favorable to the re-election of Senator Corbett. They all gave Corbett's name as their first choice when questioned on the subject and were nominated and elected on that profession mainly. Yet they all changed their minds between the time of their election and the time they voted, seemingly. But there is now good reason to believe that two of them, Messrs. Mallory and McPatton, never intended to act as they professed. Mr Mallory especially has at several times shown a remarkable facility at changing his views on important measures. Witness his action in assuming that his constituency desired the State to purchase the locks last session and his voting for that measure, which so nearly bound the State in an additional burden of $650 000, and witness how quickly he changed his opinion when he and Ben Simpson were forced to a reconsideration of the locks bill, after being driven back inch by inch in one of the closest contests of Parliamentary law ever had in an Oregon Legislature. "Tom" McPatton led the contest in the people's interest, and his gallant conduct on that occasion should have secured his renomination this year, but Tom is honest enough to say that to spend his time and money for the honor of a seat is not to his taste. He also, I fancy, perceives that the times are not so favorable as they have been for changes of opinion between being elected by and legislating for the people. That Mr Williams may have the same discernment is the hope of

ONE OF THEM.

HAVE WE A BOSS TWEED IN OUR MIDST?

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

As several instances of Sheriff Caywood's sharp practice upon the tax payers of this community are coming to light, upon which himself and friends remain ominously silent, up to the present time, if he is a candidate for re-election before the Republican party of this city and county should rise to explain, between now and the coming primary and nominating convention to be held next month, will he please enlighten the tax payers of this city as to what is generally believed to have been a "put up job" in regard to his connection with letting the contract for constructing the Police Building, by which a great many in this community surmise that Mr Caywood is not exactly like Cæsar's wife.

But as he may have satisfactory data to close the lips of cavilers, I, as one Republican taxpayer interested in having a county Republican ticket presented without blemish in these Credit Mobilier times, ask him to explain the following queries, in to his doings as a member of the Portland City Council in reference to ... things that are dark:

1. The cost of the Police building was between $19 000 and $20 000, which competent experts say is above what it could have been contracted for provided there had been fair play in awarding the contract.

2. As you were Chairman of the Council committee that had charge of the letting, you awarded the contract to a man notoriously incompetent to estimate upon such a job—and why, although a resident of this vicinity for about twenty years, had never before put in a bid on brick work—the Police building contract being his first and last attempt in that line. Was that just the right thing and was it not for some personal object?

3. A majority of your fellow members of the Council believing that your hands were not clean in the affair and that you were the real contractor, therefore passed a resolution that hereafter no contracts should be awarded without the Chairman of the special or standing committee first reporting the bids in open Council for concurrence and information. Was this suspicion well founded? Were you not the real contractor?

If these things are so it would be very unwise to load down the Republican county ticket with you at this crisis in politics, in addition to your action in doubling Sheriff's fees by undue influences upon the Legislature of 1872.

Perhaps you may be able to make it all lovely before the public of this city and county. If so it is time you are about it.

ANOTHER REPUBLICAN.

UMATILLA COUNTY PEOPLE'S TICKET.

PENDLETON, April 16 1874.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The Independent People's Convention which met here yesterday placed in nomination the following ticket:

State Senator, Chas J Jewell; Representatives, W M Steen and J O Florence; Sheriff, J A Truitt; Clerk, H J Kirkland; Treasurer, Tom Livermore; Assessor, D Taylor; County Commissioners, J L Rodgers and H Bowman; School Superintendent, J H Lee; Surveyor, J H Sharon; Coroner ...

The ticket is thought to be a good one and will be elected by 300 majority.

PREVENTION OF CRUELTY TO ANIMALS.—The House Committee on Agriculture to day agreed to recommend the passage of the bill for the prevention of cruelty to animals in transportation by railroads with an amendment providing that animals shall not be kept on cars without food and water longer than twenty four hours, instead of a period of twenty eight hours as named in the original bill.—Wash. Cor., April 2.

SALE OF A REVENUE CUTTER.—The S. F. Chronicle of April 15th says: Goodall, Nelson & Perkins bought the revenue cutter Lincoln, 350 tons, at auction yesterday morning for $25 250 currency. They will thoroughly overhaul her hull and machinery and rebuild her upper works and place her in their coast line.

THE TERRITORIES.

Wesley R ... is wanted. He is supposed to be living somewhere in Montana.

The Keating & Blacker Mine at Radersburg, Montana, has $80 000 worth of ore on the dumps.

Several Tucson Sounders arrived at Prescott, Arizona, on the 31st ult, and are expected to ... in that vicinity.

The total rainfall as reported at Beale Springs, Arizona, from May 1873 to March 1874 inclusive, was 18 07.

The Tacoma Tribune closes its IXth volume this week. It is a lively progressive sheet, and a welcome visitor to our table.

A Montana paper says: Six horse stock on the Helena route now full loads to Deer Lodge, and the carrying capacity inadequate. The world moves.

Two Olympia lads aged about twelve years had a scrimmage the other day in which knives and clubs were freely used and some bad blood spilled.

Mr Peter McLaughlin of Tulalip, Snohomish county, and Mr J O Turner of Orcas Island, San Juan county, have been appointed Notaries Public by Governor Ferry.

The master of the bark Dublin, arrived at San Francisco April 16th from Port Gamble, reports that on the 18th of February John Oaks, second mate, fell through the hatchway and was instantly killed.

The Salt Lake Tribune makes this thrust at the Mormon leaders: Worse men than Bender remain unhung in Utah. They are Prophets, Apostles, Elders, etc and are shielded by the garb of religion.

The Arizona Miner says: "While all intelligent Arizonians hope that Congress will enable Colonel Scott to build a Southern Pacific railroad, many of them fear that Congress will not grant such aid and concessions as he demands."

At Silver Dale in Colorado George Hammond and Bill Mackey differed as to where the next dance should be held. They settled the dispute amicably with pistols. Hammond had the dance at his house and Mackey has a funeral at his.

The streets of Olympia each Saturday for some weeks past have been crowded enough to lead to the supposition that it must be the Fourth of July. The Grange there has so many members is the cause. It is also constantly gaining strength.

A gentleman who has made a canvass of Tacoma estimates its actual resident municipal voting population at three hundred—a number six times greater than that of one year ago and second to that of no other town on Puget Sound. The assessment of the town, though yet incomplete, indicates an advance over last year of 300 per cent.

The wife of William McFarland, who resides on the ocean beach some twenty five miles north of Gray's Harbor, was severely wounded, the first of last week, by the accidental explosion of a metallic cartridge. She was handling it and dropped it, causing it to explode. The ball entered her wrist and ranged up the arm between the bones, coming out near the elbow.

A man sporting the name of Charles Jack-on Wilson played "sick and destitute" on the charitable people of Olympia and raised considerable money to enable him to get out of the country, but forgot himself and drank up or gambled away the gifts, whereupon the people concluded that they didn't want him to go, and had him arrested for obtaining money under false pretences.

The Prescott (Arizona) Miner of the 3d inst says: "One of the owners of the Salvador mine showed us a couple of hours ago a small bar of gold, weighing 24 ounces and valued at $42 75, the proceeds of just one ton of rock—top rock at that—from the Salvador mine, near Prescott. The batch of rock was worked by Mr R ... Elliott in his arrastra in this town. This result, although not a large one, gives general satisfaction. The shaft on the Salvador is down about 15 feet, at which depth the ledge is of good size and the rock very rich. The owners talk of erecting a water wheel and arrastras to work their rock, on Granite Creek, a short distance above Prescott."

A gentleman at Helena, M T, has a pair of huge mountain lions or cougar, which he has raised from whelps. These beasts are now about two years old and fully as large as a good sized panther. They do not attain their full growth until four years of age. They are very ferocious, and give no evidence of becoming tractable, and an ordinary sized dog thrown into the cage, did not survive long enough to give a yelp. The owner says they have already devoured some ten or twelve dogs and twenty or thirty cats which have been given them to play with. Three of the same species taken from Montana to the States last fall were sold to a Chicago museum for $1,500.

A HOBOKEN SCOOPER ARRESTED.—Says a Jersey City dispatch April 14th: President Dodd, of the Hoboken Savings Bank to day received intelligence of the arrest in London of Keenan, the cashier, who is a defaulter to the extent of $110 000, including $20 000 in $1 000 United States bonds. His flight was known on the 9th of April last year, since which time he has been abroad. Keenan has been leading a fast life in London. A portion of the stolen money was found on his person. He has had a female companion during his stay who will probably be brought with him.

PLYMOUTH CHURCH AND ITS PASTOR.—A New York dispatch dated April 8th, says: "At an informal meeting of prominent members of Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, a few evenings since, both the project of building the largest church in Brooklyn and giving their pastor six months' vacation were favorably talked of as a fitting mark of confidence of the members in Mr Beecher and appreciation of his services."

A CURIOUS ACCIDENT.—At Cairo, Ill, on the afternoon of April 3d a young man named Ernest Petit was riding horseback in the outskirts of the city when the forelegs of the horse suddenly sunk in a deep hole, causing him to turn a complete summersault and fall upon Petit, who received serious, perhaps fatal injuries. The horse's neck was broken by the fall.

GEORGE WILKES IN JAIL.—A New York dispatch of April 14th, says George Wilkes, of the Spirit of the Times, was committed at Essex Market Court to day in default of $10 000 bail in the Wilkes-Chamberlain libel suit.

THE MAYNARD BANKING BILL.—A Washington dispatch of April 15th says the Maynard Banking and Currency bill finally passed the House this afternoon by a vote of 160 to 128.

PUBLIC DISCUSSION.

T. W. Davenport and Richard Williams, opposing candidates for Congress, will address the people at:

Corvallis, Tuesday evening....April 21st
Eugene City, Wednesday evening....April 22d
Oakland Thursday evening....April 23d
Roseburg, Friday P. M., at 2 o'clock....April 24th

THE RING CANDIDATE A FAILURE.

Unless we are grossly misinformed we committed a grave error in the notice we gave of Richard Williams next morning after his nomination. We said he would make a respectable campaign. This opinion was based upon what we knew of him as a lawyer. It was taken for granted that a person of his standing at the bar would prove to be able to make a fair political canvass. But Richard is a failure, or else he is wofully misjudged. In his Lafayette speech he is reported as devoting a large proportion of his time to reiterating the old charges of disunionism against the Democracy, calling them secessionists, traitors and other such names as were used in the days of the war to inflame passions and influence the feelings of the community. Instead of attending to the live issues of the day, the wants of the people, the necessity of such reform in administration as will give the country cheaper government, the cheapening of transportation, the freeing of the country from the tyranny of railway monopoly, he dwelt mainly upon those questions in the bitter past, which happily for the Republicans are forever dead, and which every generous nature would wish to have buried and forgotten. Aside from this, his speech had nothing in it worthy of note, unless it was an incidental illustration it contained of his ideas of economy: He said he was in favor of roofing in the State Capital just as it now is, and doing nothing more to it for twenty years. Comment is unnecessary. Grover's ideas of economy, as exemplified in the State House job, are certainly bad enough. We trust the country is not going to go from Watkinds' administration to Holladay's unless Holladay's man can be shown to be no true exponent of the "old man's" views.

But Richard can exercise some cunning when it is necessary. That State Capitol speech would not be good in the latitude of Salem, and he carefully omitted it from his remarks at that place. In his Salem speech he said there were but two important questions before the country. The first was between inflation and contraction of the currency; and upon this he had not made up his mind. The other question was whether Congress had the power to regulate freights and fares on inter-State railways; and on this question he did not know how he would vote if in Congress.

We should like to know what are the qualifications for Congress of an individual who declares there are but two important questions before the nation, and he does not know which side of either of them he considers right.

Evidently Dick is not doing himself justice in this campaign. He has more sense than he is asking credit for. The trouble is, he is in an awkward position. His candidacy under the auspices of the Holladay-Hipple ring, is a contradiction of his whole past life, and a complete stultification of himself. Consequently he flounders and appears feeble and ridiculous. But it will soon be over and Dick will return to his law practice a wiser man, with some loss of standing, but none of money, as he is paid for the canvass by the ring.

MORE INTERESTING QUERIES.

"Another Republican," in this morning's paper, propounds some more conundrums to Sheriff Caywood, cutting a good deal closer than any that have been put at him before. We hardly see how Mr. Caywood can afford to remain silent upon the questions now asked. The charge that he helped to put up the job to increase the fees of himself is true, but involves no criminality in legal contemplation, and, as the world goes, no moral turpitude. And the same we suppose may be said in regard to his sending his money out of the State to avoid taxation. Such is not the case, however, with the charges implied in the questions propounded this morning. If it is true that Williamson, the contractor on the Police building, was a mere figure-head, Caywood being the real contractor, the matter strikes right home. Mr. Caywood was himself not only a member of the Common Council at the time of the contract, but he was a member of the particular committee entrusted with the letting. And he continued a member of the Board during all the time the work was being carried on, and while payments were being made on the contract. Now, if Mr. Caywood cannot successfully deny that he was the contractor, or interested in the contract, we shall have some queries of our own to state to him. There are a good many things that will require clearing up, if the ostensible contractor on the Police building was a lay figure behind which Mr. Sheriff-Councilman Caywood was hiding.

MORE OF HIPPLE'S PETTY SPITE.

Dr. W. H. Watkins, of this city, who was induced to leave a lucrative practice to become Surgeon of the Oregon Cavalry, for which he was paid off in greenbacks when they were worth fifty odd cents on the dollar, has, for some time past, been holding the little office of Examining Physician of the Pension Bureau. Mitchell has had him removed, and, perhaps, he can find some ex-convict to take the place. When Mr. Hipple came to this State with his "motherless" daughter, as he represented her, she was very feeble for a long time, and the doctor took her into his family, where she was nursed by his wife, and cared for as one of their own children until she recovered her health. Now the man who wants to be "let alone" rewards his benefactor in this way.

Mr. Rufus Mallory resents the insinuation of a correspondent of the OREGONIAN, that he is going to take the stump for Tolman. He has the Bulletin contradict it with an italicised negative. We can't blame him.

MORE REVELATIONS.

Our readers will recollect an article that appeared a week or two since, copied from the Independent, in which Judge Bingham ventilated some things connected with the publication of the Cornelius Progressionist. Mr. Bingham's disclosures brought down upon him a regular thunderstorm in a small way, in which the Davis of the Progressionist turned himself to find slime and filth nasty enough to be thrown on Bingham. But this Bingham is evidently not a person to be "perturbed" easily. He quickly pursues the matter in another telling letter to the Independent, which is decidedly rich, as the following extract will prove:

In his issue of last week he says that Ben Holladay does not own one dollar in the Progressionist. Very well, let us briefly review the facts in the case, and they will speak for themselves.

A NEW THINGS VENTILATED.

In February or March, 1873, we, at Cornelius, learned that the Democratic Era office at East Portland, was for sale at a bargain, and as Davis was expected here in about six weeks to start a paper at this place, and had written that he could get here with $1,200, we concluded to secure the Era office and give it into his hands when he should arrive. Whereupon T. R. Cornelius went to Portland, and bought the press and material for $600, giving his note payable in two years. We wrote to Davis that some materials were still wanting for the office, and that he should bring them with him as he came through San Francisco. But when he arrived he did not bring the material, and said that he had been disappointed and had no money. But the money was raised here, and the necessary material for the office secured. Then Davis went to work on his own responsibility, and he run the paper about a month and got disgusted and quit. He then said if

HOLLADAY

Would pay him a salary, that he would run it for

HOLLADAY.

T. R. Cornelius then agreed to pay Davis $50 per month and Z. Taylor $45 per month to run the paper one year, provided that

HOLLADAY AND MITCHELL

Would pay part of it. When Holladay came home Cornelius went and saw him, and when he (Cornelius) came back here, he said that Holladay said to employ Davis to run the paper, and for Cornelius and myself to

SELL TOWN PROPERTY

And pay him, and that Mitchell (now Senator) would either buy the Forest Grove Independent or else buy up

FRANK MYERS,

Since which time Mr. Davis has been running the Progressionist under that contract.

Now, then, Mr. Davis, who owns the Progressionist? You, Tom Cornelius, or Mr. Holladay? Not you, certainly. I admit that it is a little mixed, nevertheless it is quite clear that Davis does not. But the ass loves his master's crib, and likewise does Davis thusly.

Now, I would ask this poor specimen of Southern chivalry, who wears a No. 4 hat and No. 13 boots, who it is that compels him to attack such men as Bowlby, Hinman, Marsh, Humphreys and all others whom Holladay and his satraps, henchmen, minions and hirelings desire to crush beneath the monstrous monopoly of his railroad and moneyed power? Those men, Davis, you have attacked in your ignorance and weakness in obedience to the dictum of your masters, and they forgive you because you are very small potatoes, but the sharks and harpies at whose bidding you grind out your two or three weekly columns of idiotic drivel—these men they propose to hurl from power and bury them deep and forever.

A Washington correspondent of the New York Times wrote three weeks ago that "the President adhered to his previously-expressed convictions, as recorded in his several messages, that any unwise legislation—expressly anything tending directly to permanent inflation—must run the gauntlet of his veto." When the President read this he called "a leading Western Senator" to his side and told him that "if he were a member of Congress he should regard an intimation of a veto in advance of legislation as an unbecoming threat by the Executive, and should resent it." Forthwith this spirited sentiment was telegraphed all over the country by the inflationists as a declaration against contraction. The "leading Western Senator," says George Alfred Townsend, "was not John A. Logan; he is too modest to claim it. It was not O. P. Morton; for he is not a leading Senator, but lays his ear to the zephyr of public opinion and votes according to the wind." And so George Alfred goes farther West. Of course he meets with the junior Senator from Oregon; "but then," he says, "it couldn't be Hipple-Mitchell, because that much-married individual never would resent a mere intimation of a veto; in truth, he doesn't look as if he could resent anything." After giving our bigamous Senator a few rounds of grapeshot by way of diversion, Townsend settles on the "leading Western Senator":

We hardly think Senator Logan would, but then he fout into the late War. When his blood is up, his hair rises. When his dander is riz, on finance particularly, you may as well bend the heavens and come down. He would, we fear, resent the intimation of a veto.

Scott's old sore has broken out again. In yesterday's Bulletin he has two distinct and specific growls and one whine about having been kicked out of the OREGONIAN. We are sorry for Scott, and would do any reasonable thing to console him. Once when he whined and growled alternately at certain individuals whom he designated by the name of "the mercenary brigade," the wife of Oregon's then Senior Senator growing suddenly impatient, said, "Judge, do give that fellow Scott something, and stop his noise." And thereupon he got something, and his noise closed. He wants something again, but it is something this time that it is not in the power of United States Senators to give. Is there nothing else that would assuage his grief. A collection was taken up for him a few years ago, and it did him good. Won't somebody take pity on him and start a subscription list?

William J. Wallace, of Syracuse, New York, has been appointed United States District Judge for the Northern District of New York, vice Nathan K. Hall, deceased. Mr. Wallace is said to be a gentleman of handsome legal ability and high culture. The name of Congressman Buell, of the Twenty-fourth New York District, was strongly urged upon the President; but he said that while he had the highest opinion of the abilities of the gentleman mentioned, yet "such is the prevailing prejudice among the people that it would be questioned whether Congressmen were capable of making upright judges," which is another pungent illustration of the doctrine that the President has "no policy to enforce against the will of the people."

Many of our Eastern exchanges commend the course of the crusading ladies of Manistee, Michigan, to the attention of anti-liquor people everywhere. These ladies have opened a free reading-room for the 2,000 workingmen of the city, and have commenced the construction of a large building which is to furnish a temperance hall, a reading room, a coffee room and a smoking room. It is said that hundreds have already availed themselves of the enjoyments thus placed within their reach. The ladies take a very sensible view of the case: they say they must furnish some attractive substitute for the saloon and billiard hall in order to bring within their influence those whom they would benefit.

That little contract by which Waite was to run a ring paper, with Crandall as editor, in consideration of the nomination for State Printer, is to be carried out. Waite has made arrangements to raise for Crandall about $2,000 to relieve the Statesman from embarrassment and Crandall is to make it a ring paper. So if Waite is elected State Printer the fifty per cent. which it costs above what it should cost to do the State printing will go to run a ring Republican organ. That's the way it is done. The people of all parties are to be taxed for the next four years to support a party paper at the Capital. Do you think that is exactly right? If you do, vote for Waite, the ring candidate.

Mr. Ramsey has reported the postal telegraph bill from the Senate Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads. It proposes to incorporate Gardner C. Hubbard and his associates as a postal telegraph company, on condition that they shall contract with the Postmaster-General for the transmission of correspondence by telegraph at certain rates prescribed by the bill.

George Alfred Townsend concludes a review of the financial arguments in the Senate with this expressive sentence: "Such is Congress—the ideas all one way, and the votes the other." That is the truth in a nutshell: reason, logic, good faith, national honor pleading against inflation, and demagoguery voting for it.

The Secretary of War appeals to Congress for a telegraph line from Tucson, Arizona, to Santa Fe, New Mexico. Gens. Sheridan and Sherman indorse the recommendation, and add that the proposed line would be of immense benefit, both from a military and commercial point of view.

The New York Herald says they are going to tear down the house in which Proconsul Ben. Butler was born. In youth it sheltered him, but the fellow who has the mortgage on it doesn't seem to care a cent for sentiment.

One member of the Massachusetts General Court shot an arrow straight home, the other day when he said that "Butler has killed Dawes twice—once as an enemy and once as a friend!"

Portland April 20 1874 — R. J. LADD Clerk.

Mr Thompson moved that the report of the Clerk be referred to a committee of three persons to be appointed by the meeting The motion prevailed Several persons were nominated as members of the committee some declining to act and finally Messrs James Steel W V Spencer and H Y Thompson were appointed

A PARLIAMENTARY MUDDLE

Hereupon Mr L Brooke moved to adjourn and the motion was duly seconded and stated by the Chair

Mr Walling moved to lay the motion to adjourn on the table, which was seconded, and the vote taken The Chair decided that it had carried

Mr Backenstos rose to a point of order that the motion to lay the motion to adjourn on the table was not in order but the Chair seemed to think the point was not well taken Mr Backenstos then made a motion to adjourn till next Monday upon which Mr Mason rose to another point of order that the last business done by the meeting had been the disposal of a similar motion This point seemed well taken, as the Chair thought

MORE COMMITTEE WORK.

The meeting not appearing disposed to adjourn, either to a time stated or a time not stated Mr Dekum moved that the committee to whom had been referred the report of the Clerk be also instructed to ascertain and report the amount of tax required to be levied to support the schools during the year This motion being seconded and stated by the Chair elicited considerable debate in which Dr Atkinson Messrs Dekum Thompson Schuyler Ladd, Corbett Giltner Mason and others, took part.

Mr Thompson offered as a substitute for Mr Dekum's motion that the matter of the amount of tax necessary to be levied be referred to a special committee of three The substitute also drew out considerable forensic eloquence but was voted upon and declared lost

The motion of Mr Dekum was then voted upon and carried

A motion was made to adjourn for one week but was not put to a vote, and the motion to adjourn until Monday evening, May 4th at 7 30 P M was voted on and carried unanimously and so the meeting adjourned

TRIAL OF THE CRUSADERS.

Eleven o clock having been fixed by the Police Judge for the continuation of the trial of Mrs Shindler, Mrs Sparrow Mrs Ritter Mrs Swafford, Mrs Fletcher and Mrs Stitzel charged with disorderly conduct on the streets in front of Walter Moffett's saloon, yesterday morning we found a very large crowd collected in and about the City Jail The court room was literally jammed almost to suffocation, and the officers were compelled to refuse admittance to many persons on that account We observed an increase in the attendance of lady friends and sympathizers of the defendants who had doubtless been drawn there by feelings of interest in the progress and result of the trial and from motives of common sympathy

It will be recollected that Mr Parrish one of the counsel for the defendants had demanded, last Saturday afternoon a jury who were to be drawn from the special list Yesterday morning the counsel for the defendants asked the court for a jury of twelve men This was objected to by attorneys for the city who claimed that six persons had been agreed upon who were to act as jurors Mr Shoup for the defense, made a most able and exhaustive legal argument in support of what was asked for which was responded to by M F Mulkey and J A Cronin More than an hour was consumed in arguing this motion The court however overruled the motion and decided that a jury composed of six persons was sufficient to try the case That number having been previously summoned the court ordered that the panneling of the jury proceed at once

The following persons were drawn Charles P Bacon J M Fryer J B Kellogg George I Greene Mr R J Ladd and Geo I Story, who were summoned, claimed exemption from serving on the ground of being firemen The Court excused these gentlemen and ordered a venire for two additional jurors Noon having arrived, Court adjourned until 2 o clock

At the hour designated Court convened Capt R R Thompson and B Goldsmith having been summoned were called in Court and on giving the required answers, were impanneled This completed the jury The oath was then administered and the trial immediately commenced Ex Gov Gibbs one of the associate counsel for the defense made the usual opening statement of the case to the jury L A Cronin next stated the case in behalf of the city Examination of witnesses next followed During the course of the afternoon several witnesses were examined among the number Mr Walter Moffet the complainant Every inch of ground was contested by the counsel for the defense many points raised and objections noted so that the case progressed very slowly Before half the witnesses were examined and cross examined the Court adjourned until 9 A M to day when the case will be resumed

FIRE IN EAST PORTLAND.

Yesterday morning about 9 o clock, Mr Brazee a clerk employed in the drug store of Dr J W Mack East Portland while out in the yard discovered smoke issuing from the roof This building is situated on the corner of J and Third streets and is occupied as a drug store Mr Brazee immediately gave the alarm The fire, it was discovered had originated in the second story of the building towards the rear portion Dr Mack resided in the second story directly above the store but he is totally unable to account for the origin of the fire It had not been burning long before discovered and had gained but little headway A stream from an ordinary force pump would have been sufficient to quench the embryo fire but neither pump nor hose could be brought into requisition and so the flames moved on in their triumphant course Quickly as possible the alarm was spread and the word Fire ran from mouth to mouth until its dreaded presence became generally known The cupola of the east ... were among the first to perceive the smoke curling up in great volumes from the burning roof Immediately the whistle was repeatedly sounded which was caught up by a locomotive at the depot Capt Jones of the railroad ferry gave his whistle string and gave a number of loud toots which startled every person and helped to spread the alarm far and wide

Meantime our firemen had caught the alarm Soon the bells were pealing forth their loud and startling tones By this time the smoke and flames from the the burning building served as a signal and every fire company bent their hastening footsteps towards the foot of Stark street Columbian No 3 arrived a few minutes before any other company at the ferry landing but not having any orders from the Chief Engineer to proceed on to the boat the Foreman of that company waited a few moments Multnomah No 2 (old engine) was the next engine to arrive on the ground Chief Engineer Bruen immediately ordered the latter engine to cross over and also the hose cart of Willamette No 1 This order was obeyed with all dispatch, the ferry boat crossing the river in shorter time than was ever before known Landing on the eastern shore the engine was stationed at the foot of J street and a hose ran up to the scene in a few moments Although from the ferry landing up to the burning building is about 1 400 feet the little steamer did noble work and quicker than it requires to tell a stiff stream was hurled through this long stretch of hose and dashed on the flames

Through great exertions a considerable quantity of the drugs had been removed, and also the furniture before the intense heat drove everyone from the building Strange as it may appear, the fire made very slow progress although considerable quantities of oil and inflammable chemicals were stored in the building The stream of water was directed upon the adjoining building just west which prevented the flames from spreading in that direction By the time the engine began to play Dr Mack's building was totally enveloped in flames and all the energies of the firemen were centered in preventing the spread of the element The residence of Mrs Brown situated on the next corner east narrowly escaped destruction and was only saved by the application of wet blankets thrown over the roof and against the side of the building Within fifteen minutes from the time the water first issued from the nozzle the flames were completely under subjection

The losses sustained by the fire are about as follows as near as can be ascertained Dr Mack, building stock of drugs etc, $3,000 Mrs Frush three buildings badly damaged, $800 Jacob Pilger barber stock and fixtures, $100 J M Shute damage to stock in removal $100 Total loss, $4 000

Very fortunately no wind happened to be stirring or we should doubtless be called upon to chronicle a far more disastrous conflagration Promptness and energy as it was on the part of the firemen saved great destruction of property

FASHION NOTES.

Flesh colored boots for ladies wear labeled Paradise Boots in allusion probably to the kind Eve wore are displayed as a pleasing novelty by a westside Crispin

Pendent ear rings are coming into fashion again Many new fashions are exhibited in Roman Gold some of which are very pretty The lobe ear ring was a fashion of comparatively short duration

They used to tie the sash on the left side in a pretty bow but now as they are worn of such wide and handsome ribbon the ladies put them wherever there is a break in their dress

Scarfs of Spanish or guipure net lace from three to four yards long and half a yard wide are worn around the neck instead of the fur boas used during the winter Those who can afford it prefer the real guipure or thread lace scarf

A new freak of fashion consists of birth announcement cards They are very small and the announcement reads 'Compliments of Mr and Mrs —— and son (or daughter whichever the case may be), b'ch ... 3 P M'

For all cotton and linen fabrics washable laces such as cotton and guipure etc, will rival English embroidery as a trimming but as the embroidery is newer it will doubtless be the more popular

For summer wraps will be worn daintily embroidered mantelets of lawn nainsook and gauze Of course they are the merest pretence of a covering forming nevertheless very graceful drapery which few figures can afford to spare

Elderly ladies and young ladies to whom it is becoming will wear Spanish veils depending from high combs as a substitute for bonnets on midsummer evenings It seems strange that women have not long ago learned the comfort and appropriateness of abandoning hats on summer nights

Some of the new French flowers are made of tinfoil colored and tinted in the most perfect style They are very frail and delicate and on that account it is to be presumed are so expensive Tinfoil wreaths around the front of your new spring bonnet will be the tip of the fashion

Some of the new visiting cards are four inches long by two inches wide and of heavy Bristol board slightly tinted or watered We notice that some fashionable young gentlemen about town have their residences engraved on their visiting cards This is advantageous in ball or party invitations are expected

Sunshades are in fashion again The large affairs are withheld for a while and now the correct thing is an article between a sunshade and a parasol of white cluny lace over white or black over purple The ... club ... which were worn ... from the ... again ...

Latest advices from Paris declare it absolutely necessary to have bonnets wrappings, parasols cuffs collars and ... to match the dress To that end ... and with broad bindings of a color to harmonize with the prevailing tint while handkerchiefs have monograms and flowers ... to match

Our Changing Bodies

Our bodies are constantly changing. The dead matter is cast off by the bowels and the pores, and digestion and assimilation supply fresh material This material cannot be pure and consequently the body cannot be healthy unless the stomach and the secretive organs perform their allotted tasks thoroughly and regularly That they may do so keep them in good working order with that most efficient of all toning, rating regulating and purifying preparations Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. If you wish your blood to be really the stream of life to have your bones clothed with sound flesh to be exempt from nervousness and debility, to be clear headed and cheerful in short to possess that choicest of Heaven's blessings a sound mind in a sound body resort to the great vegetable restorative whenever you feel languid or suffer from indigestion, or are bilious or low spirited or suffering from any derangement of the animal functions The relief is immediate and full restoration certain

Dickelsonville Mag Co N Y Feb 3 1871

About one year ago I caught a severe cold in the head which terminated in a severe form of Catarrh During the time ulcerations occurred in the nasal passages and I became wholly deaf in one ear with partial deafness in the other The inflammation had involved all the delicate structures of the ears and I was in immediate danger of permanent deafness The discharge became profuse and fetid both into my throat and from my ears In this condition I called on Dr Pierce for aid who prescribed his Golden Medical Discovery and Catarrh Remedy and under their use have rapidly recovered My hearing is restored and my Catarrh is entirely well

TUESDAY MORNING APRIL 21 1874

MEDDLING FRIEND

BY JOHN G. SAXE.

A little red Rose bloomed all alone
In the hedge by the highway side
And the Wind came by [illegible]
And thus to the [illegible]

"You are choked with dust from the sandy ledge
Now see what a friend can do!
I will pierce a hole in the tangled hedge
And let the breeze come through!"

"Nay, let me be—I am well enough"
Said the Rose in deep dismay
But the Wind is always rude and rough
And of course he had his way

And the breeze blew [illegible] the little wild [illegible]
And now she was sore afraid
For the naughty boy [illegible] her ancient fres—
Came through where the gap was made

"I see," said the Wind when he came again
And looked at the trembling flower
You are out of place, it is very plain
You are meant for a lady's bower

"Nay let me be," said the shuddering Rose
No sorrow I ever had known
Till you came here to break my repose
Now please to let me alone!"

But the will of the Wind is strong as death
And little he recked her cries
He plucked her up with his mighty breath
And away to the town he flies.

Oh, all too rough was the windy ride
For a rose so weak and small
And soon her leaves on every side
Began to scatter and fall!

"Now what is this," said the wondering Wind
As the Rose in fragments fell
"This paltry stem is all I find—
I am sure I meant it well!"

"It means just this—that a meddling friend"
Said the dying stalk, "is sure
To mar the matter he aimed to mend,
And kill where he meant to cure."

THE ASHANTEE CAPITAL.

A CARNIVAL OF BLOOD—SICKENING DETAILS

A correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph, in a letter dated Coomassie February 5th, thus describes that city:

A town over which the smell of death hangs everywhere, and pulsates on each sickly breath of wind—a town where, here and there, a vulture hops at one's very feet, too gorged to join the filthy flock preening itself on the gaunt dead trunks that line the road; where blood is plastered, like a pitch coating, over trees and floors, and stools—blood of a thousand victims, yearly renewed, where headless bodies make common sport, where murder pure and simple, monotonous massacre of bound men, is the one employment of the King and the one spectacle of the populace. At every shuddering breath the stomach turns, so pestilential is the air but in this atmosphere the inhabitants pass their life. They eat heartily while human blood streams down the streets while bodies unburied bleach and swell before their eyes. The child does not shrink as the executioners pass by, the bride does not turn an inch from her way to avoid a festering corpse. Verily this is the metropolis of murder. The odor of putridity is the air approved by its inhabitants. The sight they love is severed necks, and spouting blood, and corpses that line the road in a procession. Their houses are built to command the widest views. They are stained red, that the color of blood may always rejoice their eyes. Beside the doors, and along the stucco friezes, one group is never absent—a fantastic figure, flourishing his knife over a helpless victim. Murder is their delight, their joy. Though the empire be tottering under the incessant drain, though their own lives are not worth an hour's purchase, the appetite will not be restrained. Children and slaves, which make their savage wealth, are sacrificed with glee to keep up the show. No where are so many dead trees, poisoned by the noxious exhalations which these people love to breathe, nowhere is animal life so scant. The pretty lizards which rustle and hunt over every other town have fled the place. Only vultures abound, with sickening tameness, and kites, which swoop close to the ground with plaintive twittering. Coomassie covers a very large space of ground—to speak of it still in the present tense. It has many handsome houses, and built in the same style. The front is open, raised about four feet from the ground. Here sit the inhabitants and watch the dreadful spectacles provided for their amusement. Chief's houses have a long facade of dead wall on either side, profusely ornamented with stucco devices in high relief. The lower part is painted red and polished. All living rooms lie behind, and little care seems to be given them. In some houses, however, they cover a very large piece of ground, room beyond room, always opening on a courtyard, and huts beyond. The King's palace is really a handsome building of stone, faced with stucco, and extremely solid. It has two floors and a belvidere, used for lumber. An open battlement surmounts the roof, from which one commands an extensive view. The place is apparently used as a treasure-house exclusively. Only one room the King lives in, to judge from appearance—a low dark bed-chamber on the ground floor, hung with cloth of country silk, and containing a silk bedstead, with curtains at one end and a low divan on the other. The rest of the building is simply stored with loot although it seems probable that the most valuable articles have been removed. I made out a list of objects noticed in my visit. Imprimis, a great number of umbrellas, some of them very handsome, and one of black and red velvet in alternate squares, bound with golden top, perfectly new. A quantity of common pot figures—Highland Mary, two little busts of the Duke of Wellington, etc. A number of clocks, various, all stopped with the rust of years. A very ancient coffee belonging to the First West India, and shako of incredible shape, probably contemporaneous. Calabashes and stools, beautifully bound with silver. A bird-organ, playing as advertised O, rest Thee, Babe, Slow broke the Light, Adeste, Fideles, etc. Portrait of a gentleman in oil. Four gold masks, very heavy, quite pure, valued at £150 to £200. A great quantity of old Dutch engravings in portfolios. Numbers of big toilet-glasses. The king's plate mostly of Dutch metal. Many guns, one double-barrel, silver mounted. A lot of kettles. A gold-bound lantern. Boxes of embossed silver, two tea-tables, one inlaid with gold, one with silver. Silver and gold Chibouks. A magic-lantern. A hand some box. Picture of the new Custom house on the river Thames. Ivory model of a ship. Chairs, beautifully carved, and a collection of "stony marbles."

SUNKEN TREASURE.—More Spanish treasure is to be recovered after submersion for upwards of 150 years. It lies in the harbor of Vigo and amounts to about $37,000,000. It is stated that this treasure was sunk in the harbor in September, 1702, since which date several efforts were made to recover it. The discovery of the diving-bell encouraged an Englishman named Dickson to make an attempt to raise the vessel in 1825. He found two ships but gave up the enterprise for want of capital. In 1859 another Englishman repeated the attempt but failed for the same reason. In 1869 Col Gowen an American who had distinguished himself by raising seventy vessels sunk in the harbor of Sebastopol, was offered the job of raising the sunken galleons for the Spanish Government, and set to work to form a company to carry out the enterprise. Owing to a technicality in his concession it was given to a French company, but the breaking out of the war delayed the preliminaries. Since then Col Gowen has purchased the right of the French company, and transferred it to an American association. It is probable that the work will be commenced almost immediately. The Spanish Government needs some such expansion of its currency.—Chicago Tribune.

At the age of 112 years, 9 months and 14 days, Mr. Isaac Guffey, a soldier of the Revolution, died at his residence in Putnam county, Mo., on the 26th of February last.

[illegible] complaint being more of dullness in trade than of scarcity of money. The bulk of the [illegible] business of the season is now past and the demand for funds from that [illegible] turns on [illegible] from [illegible] degree of readiness at the usual rates.

A member of [illegible] from New York proposes a bill to adjust the pay of Congressmen which enacts that when the balance of trade with foreign countries is against the United States each member shall receive as pay $1000 a year and when the balance of trade with foreign countries is in favor of the Republic each Senator shall receive as pay $[illegible] a year and each Representative $[illegible] a year and in determining the balance of trade [illegible] non[illegible] shall be [illegible] as an import or export In order that the object of this may be properly understood the author of it appends the following [illegible] from the constitution of the National Grange of the Patrons of Husbandry: "No people can ever become prosperous who are not self-sustaining. Our fertile soil, inexhaustible mineral wealth, abundant water power and genial [illegible] climate avail us nothing if we annually expend abroad millions for subsistence."

Now it seems to us that a better way than offering a reward to those who have failed heretofore to do their duty when they have been properly paid would be to get some honest individuals in their places who are willing to work as farmers law makers can work to place the country in a more prosperous condition. The chief trouble is not the salary which [illegible] get legally but the perquisites which they get illegally, better denominated stealings.

New York Exports.

A recent number of the New York Journal of Commerce contains a list of receipts and exports of certain leading articles of domestic produce at that port during the first quarter of the year. A comparison of the figures with the corresponding quarter in previous years rather disproves the report of dull trade so frequently made of late. The receipts of Flour and Wheat are especially noteworthy as being the largest in years. The deliveries in Flour were 972,000 bbls against [illegible] bbls in 187[illegible] and 485,000 bbls in 1872, while the deliveries in Wheat were 7,278,000 bushels an increase of over 6,000,000 bushels as compared with the same quarter of the two previous years. The exports however tell the best story. The shipments of four or five leading staples compare as follows:

	1873	1874
Flour bbls	277,[illegible]	[illegible]
Wheat, bushels	978,000	6,91[illegible]
Corn, bushels	3,085,000	2,887,190
Cotton, bales	140,70[illegible]	145,000
Petroleum, galls	[illegible]	[illegible]
Tobacco manufactured lbs	171,[illegible]	[illegible]

Wheat and Rye are the only cereals which seem to have been abundant in the Atlantic States last year. There was considerable deficiency in the Corn and Barley crops. The shipments of Hog products show some decrease from previous years. For example the exports of Oatmeal were only [illegible] 000 lbs, against 155,240,000 lbs in 1873. The exports of Lard also show a decrease of 20,000,000 lbs. In Butter there was also a falling off of [illegible] lbs. This was due to increased attention paid to the making of Cheese the shipments of which for the quarter, were 8,6[illegible],000 lbs against 7,002,000 lbs in 1873 and 1,[illegible],000 in 1872.

English Wheat Statistics.

Through the courtesy of Mr O F Phelps of this city we have been furnished with a February Corn Circular from the importing and commission house of J & C Sturge Birmingham England which contains a great deal of information in the way of statistics concerning the grain crop receipts prices etc. The circular gives the price of wheat in the United Kingdom, each year from 1800 down to and including 18[illegible]. The lowest point reached during the present century being 38s 4d per quarter in 1835 and the highest 126s 6d in 1812. The average price in 1873 was 58s 8d per quarter above that of 1872, the lowest average being [illegible] April 12th and the highest 64s 7d September 1[illegible]. The wheat crop in England in 1873 proved nearly as deficient as that of the year before but the season for sowing was as favorable as that was the reverse in 1872 the greater part could not be sown until spring and much of that which had been planted in the autumn perished owing to the winter. This year all was planted in good time came up well and now looks promising the fall rains of 1873 having barely reached the average of the last ten years. The circular before us adds: "Should the growing plant continue to progress favorably there will probably be only 11 perhaps only 10 months consumption to provide for as the two last harvests were nearly a month later than usual and with present prospects it is quite possible that the next may be as much earlier than ordinary."

The quantity of wheat and flour imported into the Kingdom during the year 187[illegible] was the greatest on record being over 1,[illegible] quarters or 100,000,000 bushels. The imports of corn, maize etc., however, fell off about 2,000,000 quarters from 187[illegible].

The circular contains also a mass of figures of the estimated stocks of grain in the chief ports—London Liverpool Glasgow Leith Hull etc. at the close of each year since 1861 from which we [illegible] the following tabular statement:

Date	Wheat Qrs	Flour [illegible]
Dec 1, 1862	[illegible]	[illegible]
1866	1,1[illegible]	[illegible]
1870	1,180,127	[illegible]
1871	1,15[illegible]	[illegible]
1872	1,2[illegible]	[illegible]
187[illegible]	842,171	[illegible]

Taking the price at which the cereal stood at the close of each of the years named above and considering the stocks in store we may form some idea of what rates will be so far as the one is affected by the other. The closing prices in the years named were as follows per quarter of 500 lbs. In 1862 [illegible]s 8d, in 1866 [illegible]s 11d, in 1871, [illegible]s [illegible]d, in 187[illegible] [illegible], in 1873 [illegible]s 8d. By calculation it will appear that the supply from the outside and other circumstances being equal the stocks in hand at the close of 187[illegible] being about one third more of Wheat and about the same of Flour than in 187[illegible], that fact so far as it affects price this year will favor of advanced rates but it may be overbalanced by the better condition of crop in 18[illegible] compared with 187[illegible]. And again on the 14th of February 1874 the number of grain laden vessels on the way to Great Britain was 8 from the continent and 2[illegible] from America against [illegible] from the continent and 80 from America at the corresponding period in 187[illegible].

A private note on the back of the circular speaks very highly of the quality of Oregon Wheat.

Miscellaneous.

Trade circles as a rule are not agitated by any fluctuations of importance prices being tolerably well sustained in most leading staples. Teas sugars and syrups are quiet and firm but coffees 1 to 2 cents per pound lower with a prospect of a still further decline.

Produce is dull and offered prices no higher than our last quotations. Wheat shippers are doing but little. Flour is well supplied and quiet; oats falling off in quantity; bacon butter and eggs unchanged; the supply of each being adequate to the local demand and but little inquiry for shipping purposes.

In order to take advantage of all fluctuations in the market the Patrons of Husbandry which now embrace a very large majority of the farmers of the State have determined to establish a produce and commission house in this city and a building has already been leased for the purpose. The business will be in charge of [illegible] of Clackamas county and will begin business in a few days when notice of the aims and objects will be more fully set forth.

It is reported a Trust Company with a capital of $100,000 will soon begin business in this city.

The number of vessels arriving at Coos Bay during the month of March was 6 [illegible] number of vessels sailed same time [illegible] amount of coal shipped during the month 1760 tons, lumber shipped 1,[illegible] 000 feet.

PLATFORM

Of the Independent People of Oregon.

Resolved, 1. That extravagance and corruption have become so prevalent in the administration of the affairs of this State and nation as to burden the people with taxes that are not necessary to good government make politics a trade and debauch the morals of society, that there is no ground to hope for a remedy for these evils through the agency of the two political parties that have heretofore ruled the country and that the welfare of the people demands that every citizen, laying aside all party prejudices and differences of opinion upon immaterial points, unite in selecting for the public service men who will exert themselves to secure public economy, retrenchment and reduction of taxation in every practical way.

2. That we view with alarm the reckless course of the State and National Government in the multiplication of officers beyond the requirements of the public service many of whom while receiving salaries from the public treasury are devoting themselves to their private pursuits and we demand that officers paid by the government give their time exclusively to the service for which they are appointed.

3. That we favor the adoption by the National and State Government of all reasonable measures for securing cheap transportation and that this end we favor liberal aid from the General Government for the opening and improvement of our harbors and rivers for the construction of the Portland Dalles and Salt Lake Railroad, the completion of the Oregon and California Railway to the southern line of the State and the extension of the Oregon Central Railway to Junction City. That the interests of the State demand the completion of the Oregon Central Railway to Astoria. That we favor such aid as may be consistent with prudence and public economy for the construction of roads across our mountain chains. And we favor the immediate construction of a wagon road along the south bank of the Columbia river from the mouth of Sandy to The Dalles.

4. That all property rights, individual and corporate, should be in subjection to law. That we would give all proper aid, encouragement and protection to corporations, companies or persons engaged in transportation, commerce or any other legitimate pursuit; but we would hold all subject to law, and we demand that the rates of freight and fare on railways within the State be fixed by the Legislature of the State and on inter-state railways by Congress.

5. That we demand a return to the salaries fixed by the Constitution for State officers and we condemn all the schemes that have been devised to increase such salaries by indirection. That the compensation of all officers should be only such as would pay them fairly for the services they perform; that County Clerks and Sheriffs should have salaries fixed by law according to their services; that the law increasing their fees should be repealed and a law enacted providing reasonable fees to be charged by them in cases where private parties alone are concerned, such fees to be paid by the officers into the County Treasury. That we demand the passage of a law to protect the public against the unreasonable charges for the State printing.

6. That we favor a liberal system of public schools but we condemn the law creating a monopoly in the sale of school books and demand its repeal.

7. That we demand the repeal of the [illegible] printing law.

8. That we demand equal rights for all citizens and a cessation of special privileges to none.

9. That the interests of the people demand a competition in the transportation of freights to and from our seaboard; that we are opposed to the purchase or leasing, by the State, of the Canals and Locks at the falls of the Willamette but would hold both the State and the Lock Company to a strict compliance with their existing contract.

10. That we especially condemn the act of the Legislature that have enabled speculators to obtain the public lands of the State in large tracts to the exclusion of [illegible] men and men [illegible] for tenants who would take them for homes.

11. That the removal of faithful and competent officers merely because of his political opinions is a gross abuse of power. That the use of the appointing power to reward political partisans for services in conventions and elections is no less corrupt than bribery; and that bribery; that the removal of faithful public officers for the conscientious performance of their duties is an outrage upon good government.

12. That personal character, no proper test in [illegible] by which [illegible] of the fitness of candidate for public [illegible] basis [illegible] of personal character.

13. That the General Government [illegible] all the expenses [illegible] damages [illegible] necessarily right [illegible] in the [illegible]; and we demand that our fellow-citizens of Eastern and Southern Oregon be indemnified by the Government for their losses and damages in the Modoc war.

14. That we are in favor of such legislation on the subject of the liquor traffic as will allow each precinct to decide by a vote of the citizens thereof whether liquor shall be sold in that precinct or not and which shall make the vendors of intoxicating drink responsible for damages which may be done by the abuse of that privilege where sale is permitted.

15. That the interests of the agricultural classes and their organization into [illegible] [illegible] protection against the [illegible] of other [illegible] commands the favor of every just mind, and cannot but result in ultimate good to the whole people.

THE EMPRESS AND THE PRINCE.

I found the Empress looking older than when I last met her, as a matter of course after her great sorrows and trials, but still a very beautiful woman. She has that clear complexion which shows too plainly the ravages of time and of care, but her blonde and still luxuriant hair and the charming oval of her face will never grow old. It was only after hours of most fatiguing work that she showed the signs of age which some remarked, but her sweet and winning smile and the sympathetic glance which she gives from her limpid blue eyes make one forget to notice other details, remarked only on close inspection. If not an Empress she would still be called as handsome a woman of her age as can be found at any court. And to this is [illegible] added the charm of her manner which [illegible] [illegible] all hearts. The Empress was dressed in black, wore no ornaments whatever, and [illegible] a black bonnet, elegant in appearance but very simple and unpretending. Her dress being [illegible] she looked much smaller than usual and less tall than when seen in the long robes of the court. The portrait of the Empress gives one the idea that she is much taller than she really is. Her son has already grown a head above her, but when standing side by side there appears to be no difference in their height. The Prince Imperial is a manly young fellow with good shoulders, an elegant form, [illegible] very clear, expressive blue eyes. His legs are precisely like his father's, short and a trifle bent, precisely like the legs of old cavalry officers who have spent their lives in the saddle. The thigh bone being comparatively short the Prince looks taller when sitting than when standing, and every one remarked at once this peculiarity in the Emperor. It is a peculiarity of this branch of the family only, as Prince Charles, son of Lucien Bonaparte, who was present, is one of the finest formed and handsomest men I ever saw [illegible] a fine sportsman and one of the best [illegible] in the world. He came all the way from [illegible] to present his respects to his young cousin. Prince Jerome refused to come from [illegible]. The Prince Imperial's voice is excellent and distinct and he expresses himself with great fluency without ever being at a loss for words. His manners are [illegible] and [illegible] ing to French ideas [illegible] like those of an English lad of his age [illegible] always good natured, amiable and ready to render every possible service to his friends. He has a quality possessed by his father, a faculty of remembering faces [illegible] on more than one occasion on Monday he astonished his friends by remembering persons whom he had not seen for years. This is perhaps the most important quality a man in his position can possess. After the deputations of the general public and the Empress and the Prince stationed themselves [illegible] the defile. Both were worn out [illegible] before this was [illegible] great signs of weariness [illegible] ing hands with [illegible] single afternoon. But the [illegible] yet satisfied [illegible] and when the [illegible] came upon the [illegible] Prince. He went [illegible] had barely gone twenty [illegible] pressed up to him [illegible] fusion prevailed [illegible] energy of the friends and [illegible] press would have [illegible] had her dress torn from her [illegible] Rouher giving some [illegible] and left as the crowd in its enthusiasm [illegible] upon the Prince. The latter [illegible] but seeing that his mother was [illegible] ports had been circulated that an attempt [illegible] the Prince's life would be made [illegible] his arms lifted her from the ground [illegible] into the hall, laughingly [illegible] moment and then [illegible] was standing. She raised [illegible] to smile but her fright was too great [illegible] hastily dragged the Prince [illegible] Then her own friends [illegible] smaller way and Madame [illegible] chamber as the only means to escape [illegible] fond enthusiasm. The crowd still called [illegible] Prince and he went out upon the [illegible] the Empress refused to [illegible] —Cor N Y Times
